
ILANZ Greenwood Roche Private Sector In-House Lawyer of the Year Award 2017

Greenwood Roche extends its warmest congratulations to Helen Davidson, General Counsel and Complaints Manager for the Institution of Professional Engineers New Zealand. The award recognises Helen's outstanding contribution to both to IPENZ and the legal profession.

The award was one of two presented to Helen during the evening, who has had a significant role in transforming IPENZ's complaints and disciplinary process over the course of the year, in addition to providing excellent support to the Institution through her role as General Counsel.

Greenwood Roche is proud to continue its support of ILANZ and to continue working alongside many of its members, providing pragmatic solutions in the delivery of various projects and initiatives that its members undertake. In his speech at the awards, Greenwood Roche Partner Doran Wyatt highlighted the increasing recognition of the value of in-house lawyers not just in terms of their legal input, but also in management and strategic oversight of their respective organisations. Greenwood Roche again wishes to congratulate all nominees and award winners on their various achievements throughout the year.
