205 Queen Street, Auckland

205 Queen Street represented one of the largest commercial property acquisitions completed in Auckland in recent times.

The icon twin tower commercial office complex consisting of Tower One (formerly known as the National Bank Centre) and the DLA Phillips Fox Tower was transacted in a two-stage deal to a foreign investor.

Our work included negotiating the terms of the agreement for sale and purchase, conducting the due diligence investigation, negotiating the terms of the property management agreement and advising on various complex commercial property and other commercial matters.
