
New Dunedin office for Accident Compensation Corporation

Ngāi Tahu and the Accident Compensation Corporation have announced the development of a new office complex in Dunedin.

Greenwood Roche lawyers Bob Roche and Sam Green recently assisted ACC with the development of a new office building in Dunedin through a 50/50 partnership with Ngāi Tahu.

The Dunedin hub is essential for ACC's national operations and this purpose-built four-storey complex will house 650 staff who are currently spread across four separate buildings.

Construction of this modern and environmentally friendly building is set to start this year. The 8,000 square metre building will be located on Dowling Street.

Specialist Expertise

Property & real estate

Key lawyers involved

Bob Roche
Sam Green

Similar projects

Ministry of Business, Innovation and Employment – New National Office Redevelopment

New National Head Office for Transpower
New National Head Office for Ministry of Education
Redevelopment of 56 The Terrace, Wellington
Sale, redevelopment and leaseback of New Zealand Post House
Watercare's new head office
New Hamilton office for Accident Compensation Corporation